KEY NEWS OF QATAR

- Qatar retail sector eyes stronger Q4 growth

  Qatar's retail sector is expected to see stronger performance in Q4 2026, supported by cooler weather, increased tourism and a busy events calendar, which are likely to boost consumer spending and footfall. Despite regional geopolitical tensions and subdued summer trading, the sector has remained resilient, with strong domestic demand supporting stable year-on-year footfall. Shopping mall operators are increasingly focusing on improving tenant mixes, introducing new leisure and entertainment concepts and offering promotional campaigns to attract shoppers amid rising competition. Initiatives such as the Hala Summer Shopping Festival helped sustain consumer engagement during Q3, while new digital business services introduced by the Ministry of Commerce and Industry, including an e-commerce licence covering 194 activities, are expected to support business entry and expansion. Overall, stable retail fundamentals and sustained demand provide a positive outlook for the sector, although operators will need to enhance customer experiences and differentiate their offerings to remain competitive.

- Qatar, UAE sign record of exchange of instruments of ratification for air transport agreement

  The governments of Qatar and the UAE signed in Doha the record of exchange of instruments of ratification of their air transport agreement, marking a step towards strengthening bilateral cooperation. The agreement was signed by representatives of both countries, including Qatar's Director of the GCC Affairs Department at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Abdullah bin Saif Al Mansouri, and UAE Ambassador to Qatar, Saeed Abdulla Al Qemzi. The development is expected to support closer cooperation and expand bilateral relations between the two countries.

- Qai, Hugging Face partner to nurture Qatar AI talent via inaugural hackathon

  Qatar-based global technology company Qai and AI platform Hugging Face hosted their first hackathon in Doha, bringing together more than 140 engineers, students and researchers across 45 teams to develop AI prototypes addressing local challenges using open-source tools. The projects covered areas including healthcare, nutrition, Arabic language, environmental protection and cybersecurity. Team YOLO, comprising female students from Carnegie Mellon University in Qatar, won first place for AquaGuard, an AI-based early warning system designed to protect desalination plants from oil spills and red tides. The event also recognised projects focused on Qatar's historical development and AI-powered drone monitoring. The initiative supports Qai's efforts to develop local AI talent and strengthen Qatar's technology ecosystem through collaboration with global open-source communities.

KEY NEWS OF SAUDI ARABIA

- Pakistan, Saudi Arabia investors launch fund to boost trade, investment

  The Saudi-Pakistan Joint Business Council launched a private equity fund with an initial size of several hundred million as part of efforts to strengthen bilateral trade and investment. The fund is expected to expand based on investment opportunities across various sectors, with 75% of its capital allocated to Pakistan and the remaining 25% to Saudi Arabia. The launch comes amid deepening economic and defence ties between the two countries, reflecting their broader efforts to strengthen private-sector cooperation and cross-border investment.

- Saudi business confidence remains upbeat at 55.5 despite October dip

  Saudi Arabia's Business Confidence Index remained above the 50-point threshold in October 2026, indicating continued optimism among businesses operating outside the oil sector despite regional geopolitical tensions and global economic uncertainty. The index has recovered from a low of 52.1 in March, rising to 54.5 in April, 55.6 in May and 56.6 in June, before remaining relatively stable at 56.5 in July, 56.7 in August and 56.6 in September. Business confidence was also supported by continued expansion in the non-oil private sector, with Riyad Bank's Purchasing Managers' Index reaching 54 in October. According to the General Authority for Statistics, the sustained optimism reflects businesses' confidence in economic stability and growth prospects across various sectors. Arthur D. Little's Thomas Kuruvilla attributed this resilience to the strategic direction, policy continuity and investment commitments under Vision 2030, which have supported diversification and created opportunities beyond the traditional hydrocarbon sector.

KEY NEWS OF UAE

- UAE construction market projected to surpass AED 642 bn by 2032

  The UAE's construction market is projected to reach AED 642.3 bn by 2032, supported by sustained public and private investment, major urban development plans and growing demand across residential, hospitality, logistics and infrastructure sectors. Dubai is expected to remain a key contributor, accounting for 47.05% of the UAE construction market in 2026. As projects become increasingly complex, technologies such as Building Information Modelling (BIM), Virtual Reality (VR) and Augmented Reality (AR) are gaining importance in improving project visualisation, design evaluation and decision-making before construction begins. Companies such as Lifesize Plans Dubai are introducing immersive solutions that allow developers, architects and investors to explore floor plans, finishes and design configurations at full scale. With infrastructure expected to be one of the fastest-growing segments through 2032, the adoption of digital visualisation and PropTech solutions is likely to play an increasingly important role in the UAE's construction and real estate sectors.

OTHER REGIONAL AND GLOBAL NEWS

- Oil falls as Trump signals restraint on Iran despite fresh shipping attacks

  Oil prices declined on Monday, with Brent crude falling 1.7% to USD 96.67 per barrel and US West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude dropping 1% to USD 89.87, as US President Donald Trump played down the likelihood of renewed strikes on Iran, raising hopes of further diplomatic progress. Market sentiment remained cautious as attacks on ships near the Strait of Hormuz continued to fuel supply concerns, despite Trump's comments that fresh attacks on Iran were unlikely while negotiations progressed. Analysts noted that markets were pricing in an optimistic de-escalation scenario, although a comprehensive agreement between Washington and Tehran had yet to materialise. Additional downward pressure came from expectations of a global oil supply surplus, with JPMorgan estimating that supply exceeded demand by 1.1 mn barrels per day in September, potentially widening to 1.4 mn barrels per day in October amid recovering Middle Eastern output, rising production elsewhere and weak demand.

- Gold rises over 1% as softer oil prices ease inflation worries

  Gold prices rose 1% to USD 4,114.50 per ounce, while US gold futures gained 1.2% to USD 4,122.00, supported by softer oil prices that eased inflation concerns and reduced expectations of higher interest rates for longer. Oil prices declined after US President Donald Trump indicated that further attacks on Iran were unlikely while negotiations continued, easing concerns over potential supply disruptions. The US dollar also weakened, making gold more affordable for overseas buyers. However, stronger-than-expected US employment data, with non-farm payrolls accelerating in October and unemployment declining to 4.1%, reinforced expectations of a December Federal Reserve rate hike, with market expectations rising to 79% from 71% before the data release. Investors are now awaiting US Consumer Price Index and Producer Price Index data for further signals on the Fed's monetary policy outlook. Among other precious metals, silver rose 1.4% to USD 52.57 per ounce, platinum gained 0.7% to USD 1,546.83, while palladium increased 1.4% to USD 1,037.58.

- Trump says US-Israel war on Iran 'effectively over'

  Diplomatic efforts to de-escalate the US-Iran conflict continued, with Qatar's Prime Minister Mohammed bin Abdulrahman Al Thani describing his meeting with US President Donald Trump and Vice President JD Vance as positive. Trump indicated that further US military action against Iran was unlikely, stating that negotiations with Tehran were progressing well and that the conflict could end fairly soon, although US forces remained prepared for any escalation. Meanwhile, Iranian Parliament Speaker Mohammad Bagher Ghalibaf accused Israel of attempting to draw Washington into a prolonged conflict, while US Representative Thomas Massie criticised Defence Secretary Pete Hegseth over the legality of military action against Iran without congressional authorisation.

FX Commentary

The US dollar weakened 0.3% against major currencies, with the dollar index declining to 101.88 following its sharp gains on Friday, as improving market sentiment reduced safe-haven demand. The euro strengthened to USD 1.12, while sterling gained to USD 1.34. The Japanese yen appreciated to 158.05 per dollar, while the Swiss franc remained at 0.82 francs per dollar.
