KEY NEWS OF QATAR

- US-Iran MoU lays foundation to end war: PM

Qatar's Prime Minister and Foreign Minister, Sheikh Mohammed bin Abdulrahman bin Jassim Al Thani, said the US-Iran memorandum of understanding has created a framework for ending the conflict and advancing negotiations toward a final agreement. He highlighted Qatar's mediation efforts alongside Pakistan and regional partners, emphasizing diplomacy, regional security, and keeping the Strait of Hormuz open for navigation. While acknowledging challenges such as tensions in Lebanon and broader regional disputes, he stressed that all parties remain committed to dialogue and de-escalation. The Prime Minister also called for a unified Gulf security framework and reiterated that lasting regional stability ultimately requires a comprehensive resolution to the Palestinian issue, including the establishment of an independent Palestinian state.

- QFZ CEO discusses bilateral investment co-operation with Chinese envoy

Sheikh Mohammed bin Hamad bin Faisal Al Thani, CEO of the Qatar Free Zones Authority, met with Cao Xiaolin on Monday to discuss strengthening Qatar-China cooperation in attracting foreign investment and enhancing economic ties between the two countries. During the meeting, both sides reviewed the investment opportunities available within Qatar's free zones and highlighted the competitive advantages offered by QFZ, including business-friendly regulations, strategic connectivity, and world-class infrastructure designed to support international investors. The discussions also underscored Qatar's efforts to position itself as a regional hub for trade, innovation, and industry. Following the meeting, Ambassador Cao was given an introductory tour of the Business Innovation Park in the Ras Bufontas Free Zone, where he was briefed on the facilities, services, and ecosystem available to companies operating within Qatar's free zones.

- Qatar eyes food security hub with EU, says chamber official

At the EU-Qatar Dialogue on Safe and Resilient Food Trade in Doha, Mohamed bin Ahmed Al-Obaidli said Qatar aims to become a leading global hub for food security and agricultural technology, leveraging lessons learned from past crises to build resilient supply chains, strategic reserves, and advanced logistics networks. He called for stronger partnerships with the EU, highlighting Qatar's need for technology, research, and expertise in agriculture, food safety, and supply chain management, while offering energy and investment opportunities in return. The discussion, which included representatives from Hassad Food and the European Union, emphasized public-private collaboration, digital transformation, AI-driven efficiency, and enhanced regulatory cooperation to support safe, sustainable, and resilient global food trade.

KEY NEWS OF SAUDI ARABIA

- Rail link with Saudi Arabia under review, financing options: Turkish transport minister

Abdulkadir Uraloğlu said the proposed railway linking Türkiye and Saudi Arabia via Jordan and Syria is undergoing technical evaluation and is envisioned as a strategic trade and logistics corridor connecting the Gulf region with Europe. The project aims to enhance trade, supply-chain resilience, tourism, and regional economic integration by creating a continuous rail network linked to Türkiye's extensive European connections. While existing infrastructure covers much of the route, key sections in Syria and Jordan require rehabilitation and completion, with around 400 km needing upgrades or reconstruction. Once technical, financial, and operational studies are finalized, the project is expected to strengthen Saudi Arabia's role as a logistics hub, support broader regional connectivity initiatives such as the Middle Corridor and Development Road, and potentially expand in the future to include other Gulf countries such as Qatar, the UAE, Kuwait, and Oman.

- Mining, manufacturing drive 5.1% rise in Saudi industrial output

According to data from the General Authority for Statistics (GASTAT), Saudi Arabia's Industrial Production Index (IPI) rose 5.1% year-on-year in 2025 to 110.4 points, reflecting broad-based growth across mining, manufacturing, utilities, and waste management sectors as the Kingdom advances its Vision 2030 diversification agenda. Mining and quarrying activity increased 5.8%, manufacturing expanded 3.9%, supported by stronger output in chemicals, refined petroleum products, and food manufacturing, while electricity and gas activities grew 5.2% and water and waste management services surged 10%. Oil-related activities rose 5.4% and non-oil activities increased 4.3%, highlighting balanced industrial growth. The strong industrial performance comes alongside broader economic expansion, with Saudi Arabia's GDP growing 3% year-on-year in the first quarter of 2026, driven primarily by non-oil sectors.

KEY NEWS OF UAE

- UAE, Korea explore expanding strategic cooperation in energy, nuclear power, emerging technologies

Sharif Al Olama met with Kim Jung-kwan in Abu Dhabi to strengthen cooperation under the UAE–Korea Special Strategic Partnership across energy, nuclear power, renewables, artificial intelligence, and emerging technologies. The discussions highlighted the success of the Barakah Nuclear Energy Plant as a model of international collaboration and explored opportunities in advanced nuclear technologies, small modular reactors, third-country projects, oil and gas, LNG, petrochemicals, and energy infrastructure. Both sides also discussed energy security, the UAE's renewable energy and energy-efficiency goals, AI applications in the energy sector and data centres, and collaboration through the Global Energy Efficiency Alliance, reaffirming their commitment to innovation, sustainability, and long-term economic growth.

OTHER REGIONAL AND GLOBAL NEWS

- Brent falls after US-Iran talks conclude in Switzerland

Brent crude oil prices fell nearly 1.5% on Monday as progress in US-Iran talks in Switzerland eased concerns about global supply shortages, with Iran announcing it had secured waivers for oil and petrochemical exports, the release of frozen assets, and support for reconstruction efforts. The prospect of sanctions relief could bring around 1.5 mn barrels per day of additional Iranian crude to international markets, boosting supply and weighing on prices. Although tensions persist including concerns over the Strait of Hormuz, renewed violence in Lebanon, and uncertainties surrounding the 60-day ceasefire between the US and Iran markets focused on the potential increase in oil exports. Brent crude dropped to USD 79.38 per barrel after briefly rising above USD 82 earlier in the session, while oil prices have already fallen more than 8% over the past week amid expectations of greater supply from Iran and increased production plans from regional producers such as Iraq, the UAE, and Kuwait.

- Gold rises as US-Iran peace optimism pulls oil prices lower

Gold rebounded nearly 1% on Monday after hitting a more than one-week low in the previous session, supported by falling oil prices as US-Iran peace talks showed encouraging progress. Spot gold rose to USD 4,199.07 per ounce, while Brent crude declined over 3% amid expectations that a potential deal could increase Iranian oil supply. However, gains in gold were capped by growing expectations of a US Federal Reserve rate hike, with markets now pricing an 89% probability of a December increase after nine Fed policymakers signaled higher rates may be needed this year. Higher interest rates typically reduce the appeal of non-yielding assets like gold. Meanwhile, Bank of America said its USD 6,000-per-ounce gold target appears unlikely unless rate hike expectations are fully removed, though it remains constructive on gold due to ongoing unconventional US macroeconomic policies. Other precious metals also advanced, with silver, platinum, and palladium posting solid gains.

- Goldman Sachs lowers 12-month US recession risk estimate to 15%

Goldman Sachs on Monday lowered its 12-month probability of a US recession to 15% from 25%, citing the recent agreement between the United States and Iran as a positive development for the economic outlook. The investment bank said the deal reduces geopolitical uncertainty, eases concerns over energy supply disruptions, and lowers the risk of a renewed surge in oil prices that could fuel inflation and weigh on economic growth. Improved prospects for stable energy markets and reduced tensions in the Middle East are expected to support consumer spending, business confidence, and overall economic activity. The revised forecast reflects Goldman Sachs' view that the agreement has diminished one of the key downside risks facing the US economy, making a recession less likely over the next year while improving the prospects for a soft economic landing.

FX Commentary

The dollar index hovered near 101, close to a one-year high, and speculative bullish dollar positions reached their largest level in 16 months. The Japanese yen weakened to around 161.41 per dollar, remaining near a 40-year low as widening US-Japan interest rate differentials and expectations of additional Fed tightening outweighed concerns about possible Japanese intervention. The euro edged lower to around USD 1.14, while the British pound initially fell after UK Prime Minister Keir Starmer announced plans to resign but later recovered to trade near USD 1.33, with markets focusing on fiscal policy implications rather than political uncertainty. Meanwhile, the Australian dollar was broadly flat at USD 0.70 and the New Zealand dollar traded near USD 0.57.
